Thirty-Eight Sailors Meet Death When British Vessel Hits Rocks Off Aberdeen Coast.

The ship was so large that it was impossible to launch a lifeboat. The lifeboat crew of the village of Dullargie tried several times to put out to sea but they were hurled back to shore. Most of the drowned sailors were from the "Wistowhall" which was a vessel of 2,300 tons and was built at Greenock, Scotland in 1890. She was owned by the Hull Line of Liverpool.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED AGAINST RAILROADS

Both Companies Named Defendants in Suit Brought by Bortha Olsen for $5,000.

Both the Chicago and Northwestern and the Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul railways are named defendants in a damage suit brought by Miss Bortha Olsen of this city for injuries received when she was hit by one of the arms of the gates at the crossing at the intersection of West Third and Academy streets.

Five thousand dollars damages were sought by the plaintiff whose suit was filed by her attorney, J. J. Cunningham, at the office of the clerk of the circuit court yesterday afternoon. The complaint alleges that the gate was out of repair, that it was not fastened or held in a perpendicular position, and that the companies were negligent in having an inexperienced employee in charge of the gates at that crossing.

The complaint further states that the plaintiff, Miss Olsen, was severely injured when she was struck and knocked to the ground by the falling of the arm of one of the gates on Oct. 26, 1911. Her injuries are said to have been so severe that $5,000 compensation from the companies who are held responsible, is considered reasonable.

STRIKE OF ENGLISH COAL MINERS NEAR

Special Conference Assembled in Birmingham Today to Consider Vote Cast on Strike Proposition.

London, Jan. 18.—A special conference of the Miner's Federation of Great Britain assembled today in Birmingham to consider the vote cast by the membership last week on the strike proposition. The outlook is causing uneasiness in many quarters, for the belief prevails that the conference will show an overwhelming majority in favor of the stoppage of work. The leaders of the miner's organization continue to voice their opposition, but the rank and file of the membership is believed to favor extreme measures to enforce their demands and the organization itself will be obliged to abide by the vote of the miners.

A general strike of the coal miners will mean the most serious industrial disturbance that the United Kingdom has experienced since the dispute in the engineering trades nearly a quarter of a century ago. The total number of men employed in and about the coal mines exceeds 1,000,000. The total output of the mines amounts to about 750,000 tons a day. It is calculated that there is about three weeks supply of coal in stock.

The miners are in a better condition now to engage in a finish fight than they ever were before. Their organization is one of the strongest labor bodies in the country, both numerically and financially. The reserve fund of the federation at the present time is believed to amount to $10,000,000 or more. What the miners are capable of when they get their backs to the wall was shown in 1893, when 250,000 of them laid down their picks and shovels and remained in idleness for seventeen weeks rather than submit to a 25 per cent. reduction in their wages, although they had nothing like the accumulated funds they have now.

The demand of the men for a minimum wage is practically the sole point at issue. Agreement of all other issues has been deemed possible from the start, but agreement on the question of minimum wage, which has now entirely displaced all other demands, appears very improbable. The mine owners are a unit in their opposition to the establishment of a minimum wage. They argue that it would be manifestly unjust to ask an employer to pay a minimum wage to a man irrespectively of his ability or disposition to perform a fair day's work.

The truth of the mine owner's contention in regard to the injustice of the minimum wage is acknowledged by the miners, and in this is edged by the hope that in this is to be found the one ray of light. A general strike may be averted. The miners have suggested the setting up of a board of arbitration in each district for dealing with exceptional cases, such as those men whose age or infirmities disqualify them from performing an average day's labor and who therefore might be employed at a wage below the established minimum.

The germ of a possible compromise lies in this suggestion from the miners, and when the Board of Trade steps in as a mediator, for and judging from the present outlook, it seems unlikely the two sides will come to a general agreement of their own accord, there will be at least one definite suggestion from the men to go upon.

WINTER OFFICE WORK OF CITY ENGINEER

Force of Assistants Temporarily Reduced to One—Planning Sewer Records and Planning Spring Work.

The greatly lessened amount of work at the office of City Engineer C. V. Kerch, which has resulted in the temporary reduction of the number of assistants to one, still leaves enough to keep the engineer and his help well occupied until spring approaches. The assistant is doing the surveying required from time to time in the construction of the new Fourth Avenue bridge and the rest of the time is helping in planning the sewer records and the making of plans for new work. Among these is the designing of a new bridge across Spring Brook on Main Street, and the drawing of plans and estimates for the brick pavement to be laid on North Main street from Milwaukee street to Fourth Avenue.

The bridge designs on which the engineer is now working are for a concrete structure of the multiple arch type and in the drawings it appears to be a very attractive as well as substantial structure. No plans have yet been submitted to the Council and it may be that the ultimate design proposed will not be of this type, or more than one pattern may be submitted.

The engineer has prepared figures as to property frontage on North Main Street, and estimates of the cost of paving which will soon be submitted to the Street Assessment Committee.

The sewer records kept at the City Engineer's office are among the most valuable data it requires. The sewers are plotted on the city map and the location of every pipe and house service connection is designated. Each index is kept of each pipe and connection on which is noted the number of permits and time of application, the date the pipe was put in, the name of the property holder and the location is given with reference to side of street and distance in feet from a designated manhole. The number of the sewerage district, of the block, and the house is stated, as well as the name of the inspector and the date of inspection. On the back of each card is a diagram showing the location of the connection. The cards are filed and indexed according to street and block for ready reference.

This system is vastly superior to that followed in some cities where the connection is marked by a stake and is often obliterated and often unrecorded. During all the time the present system has been in use here the engineers have failed to use the present connection and that was through following an erroneous suggestion of property holders as to its location. The numbers of the city have found it very convenient and reliable.

City Engineer Kerch was called to Edgerton Tuesday evening to confer with the city engineer and common council of that city as to the cost and relative merits of different kinds of pavements. The city contemplates paving some of their most heavily traveled streets.

TO EXPEDITE TRIAL OF CHICAGO PACKERS IS COUNSEL'S PLAN

Every Effort Will Be Made to Shorten Work of Taking Testimony to End Trial in May.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Steps were taken today to expedite the trial of the ten Chicago packers charged with conspiracy in maintaining a combination in restraint of trade. District Attorney Wilkerson today checked over the list of government witnesses with a view of shortening the hearing in every possible way.

The plan now is to limit the question of witness to material points, but important documentary evidence will be introduced in the hope of concluding the trial in May.

Harry A. Thimling, chief accountant for Morris and company, began his sixth day on the witness stand when court convened and was questioned by Special Government Counsel Sheehan.

The witness said the monthly accounts give no accurate information regarding the profit or loss of the business except when the inventory of stock on hand was considered in connection with the other figures.

The witness explained the "cellar account" on the books which he said was used to keep a record of corned and pickled and salt beef.

REGARDING WORKING OF INCOME TAX LAW

One of Assessors Duties Recently Appointed Tells What Supervisor of Assessment.

In regard to the new income tax law passed at the last session of the state legislature and recently declared constitutional by the state supreme court, one of the newly appointed assessors has given an explanation. He tells of the work which rests upon the assessors and how they will go about it. His statement is as follows:

Assessment on 1911 Income.

"The assessment we are about to make will be for the year ending Dec. 31, 1911. It will be payable at the time property taxes are due in December, 1912.

"The general policy of the office will be always to extend courteousness to all taxpayers and to render them all the assistance that we can. We mean to try out the law fairly, by having the co-operation of the taxpayers. The local district, the tenth assessment district of the state, is by far the most important, as it will be from this district that the greatest revenue will be derived.

"The assessor of incomes is the official supervisor of assessments in the county, including the city. We expect to be a great assistance to the tax department of the city in securing a just assessment.

"Therefore the office of the supervisor of assessments has been independent, the incumbent being appointed by the county board, thus making the office more or less subject to local influences. This does not abolish the office, but merely puts all the duties of the office on the assessor of incomes. He really has a double office, both of which are very important.

Must Get Names of All Taxpayers.

"It will be the duty of the income assessor to ascertain the names of all in his district who have incomes subject to assessment, which means all those whose income exceed $800 a year. It will undoubtedly require a house-to-house canvass to get this information accurately. The law makes it the duty of the assessor to require every person who, in his judgment, is liable to an income tax to make a sworn return to the office of the various sources and amounts of income derived.

"It will be his duty to notify taxpayers whom he thinks liable to income tax that do not voluntarily make their returns, and if returns are not made in the time required by law to fine or imprisonment or both is the penalty. In addition to this, the amount of his tax will be doubled.

"All information received from taxpayers will be strictly confidential. If any officer or employee of the office discloses any information he not only loses his position, but is subject to a severe penalty.

"After an assessment is made it is submitted to a board of review, consisting of three members appointed by the state tax commission. This board meets in July. Any taxpayer who feels aggrieved at the assessment against him can appear before the board of review. And if it appears on proper evidence that the assessment was too high, the board can adjust it. "After the board of review has completed its work the assessment roll goes to the county clerk, who compiles the amount of taxes due from each individual. He certifies the names and amount of taxes due to each of the several assessment districts, and the taxes are payable as other taxes are and at the same place.

WHAT CHANGES WILL DO FOR THIS CITY

INTERESTING ARTICLE ON THE COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT FROM AN UNBIASED POINT OF VIEW.

DISCUSS THE NEW LAW

Attention Given to Details of the Provisions Made by the State Legislature.

To the Editor:—
In recent years there has been a form of municipal government which has appeared so strongly to the people or has met with the success as that by commission.
Municipal government by commission, in a few words, is the centralization of legislative authority as well as responsibility, in cities in Wisconsin of from ten to fifteen thousand population, in the administration of public affairs, power is vested in a mayor and two commissioners, who have entire charge of the affairs of the city and are held directly responsible to the people for the conduct of their office. The various duties of management are divided between the Mayor and Commissioners so that each member is held directly responsible for the successful management of his particular office. With each Commissioner's duties clearly defined and his particular departments thoroughly known by the people, it is not a very difficult matter to determine responsibility, which is vastly different from the common system now in vogue, of a mayor and council, each claiming power and authority, with an ever shifting responsibility.

We all know only too well the difficulty under the present system of placing responsibility, where under the commission plan the responsibility is apparent.

Another feature which appeals strongly to the average voter is the fact that they have three men in office who, when considering a matter of importance are considering the welfare of the entire city and not the particular benefit of one section of the city which may work to the detriment of another. You are all familiar with the present method and the need of trading or log rolling between members of a council for the retention of their own constituents and not the entire community. Again, under the commission plan the commissioners must devote their entire time to the management of a city's business, and how greatly this differs from the old plan where members of the council devote their time to the management of their own business and the city's business is a matter of secondary consideration. The greatest business of any city is the city itself and such being the case, is there any logical reason why we should not apply scientific and up-to-date business methods to the management of our cities, as well as to our own business? A city's business is everybody's business and yet nobody's business, and the lack of centralized authority and responsibility.

Another feature of the commission government is the dispatch with which business can be handled. If a citizen has a matter to offer for decision he can go to the commissioner, or have the matter disposed of in a short time. With the old system it is almost an endless proposition. After a lot of red tape the matter is introduced into the council and after a wait of a week or two it is then tabled for two more weeks, and you are lucky if you ever get a decision.

The provisions of the commission law have been most admirably summarized by James M. Head, of Boston, Mass., as follows:

1. It makes the whole city, instead of the ward, the political unit.
2. It concentrates and fixes responsibility in the hands of a few men chosen by the whole city.
3. It recognizes to the fullest extent the principles of local self-government, places the responsibility upon the people and forces them to govern themselves.
4. It educates the people in all governmental matters.
5. It does away with partisan politics in all governmental matters.
6. It makes honesty and efficiency in office and fidelity to the public interest, instead of fidelity to a political boss, the guaranty of official security and future preferment.
7. It makes the representative careful of his conduct, since it must be approved by the people.

It effectively destroys the political boss by rendering it impossible for him to deliver the goods bargained for, since the initiative, the referendum and the recall may at any moment take away from him that for which he has agreed to pay.

It gives us in fact, and not merely in name, a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

To my mind, these reasons given by Mr. Head are enough to command the attention of any thinking man. The fundamental principle of government by commission is simplicity. What could be more simple than the administration of our city affairs by three men elected to their respective responsibilities by the people and directly responsible to them for the success or failure of their undertaking? A commissioner elected to an office of trust by the people of an entire city, and not by any one portion of a city, ever has a natural incentive to serve the interests of an entire community and not any particular section of a city or any individual class of her citizens, but is always endeavoring to treat all classes equally, and at the same time further the best interests of the city he is serving.

While commission form of government is comparatively new, it has met with remarkable success, beginning with Galveston, Texas, in 1901, until now this form has been adopted by approximately two hundred communities, and is receiving serious consideration by many more. Galveston adopted this system from dire necessity. After the tidal wave, accompanied by destruction of lives and property, the citizens were totally unable to cope with the financial situation confronting the community. The bonded indebtedness of the city was extremely heavy, amounting to nearly $2,000,000. Under the old administration the annual budget had exceeded the income by about $100,000, and every two years the legislature was asked for authority to issue $200,000 in floating indebtedness to meet this overdraft. During the first year the new administration, which it had only three days to assume after the flood, managed to keep its expenditures within its income and actually made permanent improvements out of its decreased revenues. During the first five years it put over $300,000 into permanent improvements and reduced their public debt $200,000, showing a saving to the city of $500,000 in five years or $100,000 a year. This saving was accomplished by the application of careful business methods by competent men working for the best interests of Galveston. It is also interesting to note that the change took place through the initiative of the City Club, an organization of business men organized for the purpose of civic improvement.

The commission plan has proved an unqualified success in many cities throughout the country—Houston, Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Dallas, Leavenworth, etc. At the inauguration of the commission plan in Houston, Texas, July 1905, they were confronted with a floating debt of over $100,000 and an empty treasury. During the first eight months of its term they redeemed $300,000 of the floating debt, made permanent improvements, restored the credit of the city and at the same time reduced their rate of taxation twenty cents per $100.

There is one mistaken idea regarding this form of government and that is the name "Commission," and that is unfortunate that it was given the name of Commission Government. A number of people connect this form with the present state commissions, with no matter of fact there is absolutely no connection between the two. In the first place commissioners of a city are elected by the people, while the state commissioners are appointed by the governor. This being the case, the commissioners of a city are responsible to the people and the state commissioners are responsible only to the man by whom they have been appointed. The term "Commission," as applied to the state from a standpoint of organization, denotes decentralization, while that applied to a city denotes centralization of power and responsibility.

"EQUALITY."

COUNTY INCOME TAX ASSESSOR NOT NAMED

Rock County is One of Ten Districts Without Latest State Official—Twenty-nine Named.

Rock County is one of ten income tax districts in the state that are without an income tax assessor. There are three candidates for Rock County for the appointment: Frank P. Starr, P. J. Holt, and P. L. Smith. The reason for the delay in this district is not known but it is expected that an appointment will be made for this county at an early date.

The districts in which these officials are yet to be named are:

1. Racine county.
2. Walworth county.
3. Rock county.

7. Marathon county.
8. Shawano and Langlade counties.
9. Sawyer and Rusk counties.
10. Douglas and Washburn counties.

The work of the assessors in the thirty-nine districts will begin at once and in cases where assistants will be needed the state tax commission will authorize the naming of deputies. The salaries of the assessors will also be fixed by the commission.

The income tax assessors will also have charge of the work formerly done by the supervisor of assessment, increasing the duties of the office. It is expected a conference of the assessors will be called for the purpose of giving instruction as soon as all of the appointments have been made.

SHOW DRAWS CROWDS; RIBBONS ARE PLACED

LARGE NUMBER OF PERSONS VISITED EXHIBITION YESTERDAY AND TODAY.

BIRDS WANTONLY HURT

Management of Show Offers $25 For Discovery of Person Who Committed Act of Vandalism Yesterday.

Yesterday's attendance at the show was large. Many people from the surrounding towns came to see the poultry. In a few cases the ribbons were placed upon the coops and many more were placed today. All the ribbons will be up by noon Friday and score cards ready to be given the exhibitors Saturday morning.

The Oakwood Farm, Cary Station, Ill., made almost a clean sweep of the winnings in White Rocks. They won every first, but the other exhibitors in this class are not doing any kicking as the winners were birds that honestly deserved the awards. The first cock bird was a beautiful fowl in both shape and color while the first pullet was as typical as one could come to own. This farm can certainly be proud of its record, for the competition was very keen in this class.

Several Birds Mutilated.
Someone who has an idea that he is doing a great favor to the birds in the Red class, has started to do a very mean piece of work. One cockerel in those classes has been selected by many of those who have looked over the birds, as the one for first place, had a handful of feathers pulled out of his fluff. Last evening another bird in the same class was found in the same shape. The guilty party is not known and the Association will give a reward of $25.00 to anyone who detects the one doing this work or who can give information that will lead to his arrest. Such work is the work of a bad character and the sooner he is found and convicted the better.

Grabber Gives Lecture.
The corn contest is proving very interesting. This afternoon at 3:00 o'clock an interesting lecture was given on the subject of corn growing, by Prof. Graber of the University of Wisconsin. This lecture was listened to by a large audience, many of whom were farmers. Many new phases of the subject were carefully gone over which will prove helpful when spring planting comes. Such things as this help to make farming a much more scientific matter than it is today. The boys who have their corn in the contest are enthusiastic over the matter and it is understood that the same kind of a contest will be held next year.

Good Sales Made.
Many choice birds were sold yesterday and many more went today. Some birds that have not been seen before have sold for $10 to $25 and after the awards are known some of the prize winners will bring a much higher price than any that has been received thus far. This is the place to purchase your stock for your breeding pen for the coming spring.

Eighteen wild geese are on exhibit in a nicely fixed group of overgrown geese. They are the specimens and many of them have been raised since the few old birds have been in captivity. A wild Blue Bill duck is a very interesting sight.

The following is the list of exhibitors that was not given in the issue of yesterday.

COUNTY PIONEER IS BURIED AT EDGERTON

Remains of E. W. Leonard Brought to Edgerton From Milton Junction for Interment Yesterday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, Jan. 18.—The remains of the late E. W. Leonard, who died Sunday morning at his home in Milton Junction, were brought here yesterday afternoon by train and interment was made in the family lot in Pleasant cemetery. The deceased was a native of New York state, where he also was married. Some sixty years ago, some years before the Milwaukee road was built through there, the family came to Edgerton. For several years he resided in this city, then a village, after which he engaged in farming. For a number of years he owned a farm in Alden township, about a farm three miles west of Edgerton. Disposing of the same he bought a farm in Newville, going thence to Kaukauna. Four years ago he retired and moved with his family to Milton Junction where he since resided. Of the thirteen children born to them, only one son, William H., survives the widow and mother. His sickness was of short duration and the cause of death is principally due to old age, and had he lived until next March he would have been ninety-three years of age. The funeral services of the late E. W. Leonard were conducted by Rev. J. S. Neff at Milton Junction, Paulsen's accompanying the remains here were: C. W. Fox, Henry Green, Frank Thompson and D. B. Keith, all of Milton Junction.

THE THEATERS

"LOUISIANA LOU."

Pretty Romance is the Beale of the New Musical Comedy From the La Salle Opera House, Chicago.

No prettier story has ever been told in musical comedy than that selected by Addison Burdick and Frederick Donaghy, the authors of "Louisiana Lou," for that play, which is the all-season attraction in the La Salle Opera House, Chicago, and will be seen here by Manager Askin's special company in the Myers Theater on Friday evening, Jan. 19.

The story has to do with the search for matrimony in the city of New Orleans. The character of the title, Jacob Lido, a Jewish immigrant, had, on arriving in this country, sought New Orleans as a place to make a fortune; but luck was not with him until he picked up a little girl in a bundle one dark night, and having no home of his own, took her to Mrs. Konkarny, the good-natured wife of his chum and pal, Roderick Konkarny, another immigrant, who had obtained a job on the street cars wherewith to support his wife and little son. From that night luck changed for Lido, and Konkarny; and at the opening of the play we find them the "bosses," political and in business, of New Orleans.

"Louisiana Lou"—Lido's first named her that because of the initials "L. L." on a locket chained about his neck—his home from her Paris schooling, and is, in a week or so, to be married to Jack Konkarny, son of Roderick, by an agreement entered into between the two men soon after Lido's arrival. Meanwhile, Louisiana Lou was found. Meanwhile, Konkarny, a widower, has married again; and his big son has fallen in love with Della Pale, the pretty young sister of the second Mrs. Konkarny. And Nixon Holme, Jack's pal and business partner, has been in Paris on a visit, met Louisiana Lou and fallen in love with her, although he says nothing of his affection to anybody for the reason that he supposes that Jack's heart is Louis, and he doesn't care to enter into rivalry with his chum.

A Slope Traveled.

One of the broad slopes of Mont Gineux, France, is reported to have become detached from its foundation, and to have moved over a distance of nearly a quarter of a mile, carrying with it the soil, meadows and woods, and covering up in its passage roads and bridges that stood in the way. A chestnut grove has traveled five hundred feet without suffering any apparent damage, but many small lakes have been formed by the damming of the waters.—Scientific American.

RURAL CARRIERS HIT BY RECENT RULINGS

New System of Payment for Miles Covered, Harms Service in Some Places.

People living in the country near here and receiving their mail by means of the rural routes, are to be congratulated on the fact that not one of the carriers was stopped by the extreme cold which made traveling a difficult task for several days recently. In some of the cities not far north of here the carriers remained in the city during one day at least and the farmers had to wait for their mail. This was the result of the new ruling which has just been passed that the rural free delivery carriers shall be paid according to the number of miles they travel rather than according to the number of days on which they at least make an effort to cover their routes.

Formerly the rural employees received a certain fixed salary upon condition that they made an effort to deliver their mail over the entire route, thereby signifying a disposition to comply with the department rules. The Washington authorities do not fully appreciate the conditions which sometimes exist in the Northwest or they would not put such a taxing requirement upon their employees.

Had a foot of snow fallen during one of those days when the wind cut like a knife and an exposed nose or ear froze in a minute, it would have practically blocked the rural routes, but as it was, the mails were not even delayed in delivery.

GRAIN EXHIBIT CAR VISITED BY LARGE NUMBER OF FARMERS

Viewed Display of Pedigreed Grains And Grasses And Received Instructions in Their Culture.

The grain exhibit car sent out by the Agricultural Extension Division of the University and the Wisconsin Grain Growers Association arrived here at seven o'clock this morning from Deloit, where it had been taken from the exhibit at that place. It was opened to the public at 9:30 o'clock and judging by the crowds which filled it this morning Mr. Krouger of Beaver Dam, who is in charge estimated that the attendance here will exceed that at Deloit. Mr. Krouger is accompanied by Prof. R. A. Moore and E. A. Moore of the University of Wisconsin, and K. L. Hatch, Secretary of the Agricultural Extension service.

The displays in the car consist of pedigreed grains of different kinds, both in the head and bulled, grasses of different kinds, and machinery for the cleaning and treating seed grain. They are arranged very neatly along the walls of the car and on shelves, making inspection of them convenient.

One of the methods which attract special attention from the visitors and which the men in charge of the car take pains to explain is that of testing seed corn. A few kernels are taken from each of a number of selected ears of corn, and the kernels placed on a moist cloth. Corresponding numbers are placed on the ears from which the kernels were taken. Moist sawdust is sifted over the corn in the box and left there for a stated time, and the end of which it can easily be determined by the sprouting or non-sprouting of the kernels, what corn has the greatest power of germination. A box 2x3 feet in dimensions is large enough to test enough corn to seed fifteen acres.

Among the most interesting exhibits are those showing the development of valuable grains and forage plants from weeds and grasses with the intermediate stages. The modern barley is shown to be but a development of wild barley popularly known as fox-tail or squirrel grass. Hard-pan grass has in ten years been developed into a productive forage now known as barn-yard millet, and blunder weed into silver hull buckwheat.

All the pedigreed grains displayed have been developed after from twelve to fifteen years of breeding, most of them by the experimental station. The conductors of the exhibit are prepared to give the names of members of the Wisconsin Experimental Association, and in this manner the exhibitor, the chief end of their work, the introduction of pure bred grains in every community in the state.

The Hall, Secretary of the Crop Improvement Committee of the Chicago Board of Trade, is expected to arrive here at seven-thirty o'clock this evening to examine the exhibit. The car will be open to the public until 10:30 o'clock this evening.

There was a large attendance at the meeting, practically every factory in the city being represented. All seemed enthusiastic over the prospects for establishing the new form of government in this city.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Car Wheel Breaks: When a North Western stock train pulled into the city yesterday it was noticed that one of the wheels of the forward truck of the second car from the end of the train had been broken in two. Find out the cause of the break was taken at the City Point and the car was taken to the yards to be repaired at once.

This is a peculiar accident and a very rare one, probably owing to a flaw in the steel which had not been discovered.

COMPLAINTS CONTINUE TO COME IN SLOWLY

Board of Review Takes Little Testimony—Some Protestors Raised Instead of Lowered.

Complaints of the valuations made by the tax commission are continuing to come in slowly to the board of review which is in session to hear and pass upon them. No one representing the manufacturing corporations of the city has yet appeared before them and hardly any assessments in the larger figures have been protested.

Some of the objectors came away losers. One man who came before the board yesterday to have the assessment on two pieces of farming land reduced, had one lowered, but the other was raised even more.

A Great Grace. It is no great matter to associate with the good and gentle, for this is naturally pleasing to all and everyone willingly enjoys peace and loveth those best that agree with him. But to be able to live peacefully with hard and perverse persons, or with the disorderly, or with such as go contrary to us, is a great grace, and a most commendable and manly thing.—Thomas a Kempis.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"THERE, here's all the money I owe you, at last," said sister. His brother held out his hand for the bills. "Let me see, how much was it?" he queried.

"Six dollars, wasn't it?" said sister.

The brother started to speak, then thought better of it and merely looked quizzically at sister.

"Now, what's the matter," said sister, answering the look, "did you think it was more?"

"Well, by my reckoning, it was seven-fifty," said big brother, "but it doesn't make any difference."

"Yes, it does," cried sister, warmly. "But I don't think you're right, Bob. Don't you remember I borrowed five dollars, and then I paid for your share of auntie's present, and then one day you let me have four more and then I paid for the express on all the packages for you?"

"I thought I paid you for that express," expostulated Bob.

"No, you started to, and then you said you'd let that go towards what I owed you."

"Did I?" said Bob. "All right then, we won't say anything more about it."

A woman convinced against her will is of the same opinion still. Incidentally, so is a man. And although Bob's words were all that could be desired, he looked the most unconvinced man that ever happened, and sister naturally refused to let the matter drop there.

In the end, after a half hour's arguing, Bob had his way, and took only the six dollars. Outwardly, he seemed satisfied that who was not. And sister, knowing just how he felt, started under the influence of being sure that she had paid her last dollar, and being equally sure that Bob believed she had not.

All of which, I have set down here, because it is so typical of the financial entanglements into which the average family so often gets.

"Well, what of it?" perhaps you say. "What's a dollar and a half between brother and sister?"

Ah, my friends, it wasn't the dollar and a half that mattered, or that ever matters. It isn't the money at all that counts, but the feeling of resentment and injustice that the trouble money may cause.

This big brother, as I happen to know, would gladly have given sister five or ten dollars outright, and often did. It was the knowledge that she didn't believe he was giving it to her that irritated him.

And on her side, it was the feeling that she was really paying all her just debts and that her brother thought he was excusing her from some of them, that bothered her.

Mind you, I don't mean that the resentment which these two felt lasted any time at all, or that the disturbed feelings arising from these financial misunderstandings very often do endure, only it is so foolish to allow them to disturb the family harmony at all.

How avoid it?

Why, simply by doing what these two so evidently hadn't done—by settling down all financial transactions in black and white.

I know a family of three sisters, all wage-earners, who are continually lending and borrowing among themselves in times of financial stringency or prosperity. But they never have the least trouble about such things, because they have made it a habit that both the borrower and the lender shall keep a written account of the transaction.

Of course, you trust those whom you live with and love; of course, you wouldn't mind lending a little money to them and not getting it back; of course, you wouldn't be so vulgar as to fight about money matters anyway;—yes, I know all that, but why not avoid the slightest possibility of misunderstanding by businesslike methods in money matters, even between housemates?

I really think it pays.

ly one who says he does not eat much in the morning will develop an appetite if a tempting breakfast is set before him for a few days.

The man who knows before he gets out of bed just what he will have for breakfast is not likely to long for it as the element of surprise which helps towards a good appetite is entirely lacking. I know a family once who breakfasted upon hash every day in the year and another where doughnuts and coffee was the sole breakfast winter and summer. Strange as it seems in both cases the appetite was never lost through sameness of food but these were undoubtedly the exceptions to the rule that monotony in food kills a relish for it.

It is sometimes urged in favor of the very light breakfast that a hearty meal is not needed in the morning. It is probable however that more people are injured by depending too much on several cups of coffee, sloppy cereals and dry toast than have digestion injured through eating meat, potatoes and corn or other sustaining bread in the morning.

The man of sound digestion who has a hearty breakfast is not likely to feel all gone at ten o'clock in the forenoon but can keep at his work with some energy until noon.

By rising a half hour earlier and by making preparations the night before it is possible to have a freshly cooked breakfast.

If there is a productive breakfast in the morning, serve a combination like baked bananas, bread omelet and rice muffins.

If meat is liked there is no reason why on a cold morning the following would not be good: Baked apples, baked sausages and corn cake.

A bread omelet is economical of eggs. Sauté one-half cup of stale bread crumbs in one-half cup of milk and for convenience they can stand over night. Beat two eggs light, add a salt spoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of baking powder and a little pepper. Mix with the soaked crumbs and turn into an omelet pan in which one level tablespoon of butter is melted. Place over a moderate fire and when the omelet seems firm, set in the oven for a minute then cut across and nearly through the top and fold. If there is no oven heat hold the pan in a slanting position over the gas flame until the omelet colors a little before folding. The browning may be omitted but the omelet will not be as good.

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

Give Yourself a Helpful Environment.

WHY shouldn't you give yourself all the help there is in the world for you to grow toward the good and the beautiful? For growth toward the good and beautiful means success and happiness.

And your environment has a lot to do with this. And you can influence your environment.

We all know that if we plant cantaloupes near squash, the cantaloupes will taste of the squash; that if popcorn is grown too near the field corn it loses its characteristic quality of popping. And what is true in the vegetable world is true in the finer world of spirit. We gradually and insensibly become like that which we associate with. And it is a strange thing that unless we are an exceptional character, we rarely pull the other fellow up, unless he wants to be pulled up. But we eventually and insensibly slip down. The squash does not partake of the nature of the cantaloupe. The cantaloupe grows like the squash.

And since this seems the law, why not make use of the beneficent side of it, and put ourselves in touch with those associations that will lift us up? Why not deliberately give ourselves all the help possible upward to better things?

Choose books, choose music, choose pictures, that all have an upward and broadening tendency. Why not live the richer, fuller, more beautiful life, if you can? If you do not know these regions, there's untold pleasure awaiting you in exploring them. There's more of adventure and delight ahead, than ever awaited the early discoverers of this continent.

And deliberately choose associates who are a mental and spiritual uplift. Do not choose those whose influence pulls you down, whose conversation, even, is lowering in thought or language. Get yourself in touch with people who are a tonic, not a poison, or even a sedative.

You may need to prepare yourself for such associations by getting on their mental plane. But this you can do through books and pictures and music. And rest assured, when they find in you a kindred spirit, they will gladly welcome you.

And if you set in this helpful, uplifting environment, you will find good things coming your way. Like attracts like, in mental and spiritual realms, as well as in the physical.

And why deprive yourself of this good, when you can have it if you will? Why not enjoy beauty and success and a richer life, when it is yours for the taking? Why sit in shadow when you can bask in sunshine? You can choose your pleasures and your associates. And if you choose what is progressive and uplifting, it will be the door through which you can enter into many good things.

So look to your environment. Drop that which is pulling you down, and reach out and take hold of that which will lift you up.

Paris is raving over a new shade—fuchsia red—and we are showing to-day a suit for a young girl in this color striped with black hair lines. The design is most attractive with its dainty cut skirt. The velvet which is used for collar, cuffs and pocket flaps and band across front of skirt is several shades darker than the fuchsia color in suit and the buttons are covered with the striped material. #### GOOD HEALTH THE SECRET OF BEAUTY.

Mrs. Langtry, asked for her "secret" of beauty, said: "The fact that I believe in the power of mind over matter does not blind me to the fact that the foundation of the whole secret of beauty is good health. A sick woman cannot be beautiful. Work, sunshine, exercise, nourishing food, fresh air and cheerfulness are my recipe for beauty."

This prescription is correct in every particular. The food should be plain, avoiding waste of vitality in digestion and elimination; vivacity is inconsistent with working overtime in digestion. White bread, pie, pickles, cakes, tea, coffee, pork and all stimulants should be avoided. Coarse wheat, rye and corn bread and nuts, olives and figs should form the staple of the diet.

Prunes with olive oil or peanut oil have a very important use in preserving the complexion, by preventing constipation with its attendant auto-intoxication and bilious headache that often leads to nervous breakdown. Buttermilk is most helpful as an antidote to sallow skin and pimples. A glass may be taken on retiring.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A FLEET CAPTURED BY CAVALRY.

By A. W. MACY.

In 1794, when France was arrayed in arms against the rest of Europe, the Dutch fleet became ice-bound in the Zuyder Zee, which forms the harbor of Amsterdam. A body of French cavalry, under General Picquet, surrounded it, and galloping across the ice, furiously attacked the great ships and captured them. Had the Dutch commanders been as smart as Napoleon the result might have been otherwise. At one time when he saw his adversaries posted on a frozen lake he brought his artillery to bear and shot the ice from under them, letting them into the water.

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo. — "I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eleven doctors. I had dragging down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse all the time. I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I might die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women." — Mrs. BERTHA MURPHY, 603 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female illness known of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Thought for Today

BY MRS. ROBERT N. LAVELLETT

CHILDREN'S ISLAND.

FOURTEEN acres standing up sheer out of the sea—a rocky island that would hardly be of value as a sheep pasture, and yet each summer two hundred and fifty or more thin, pathetic little creatures here transformed into bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked, happy children. They are gathered up from all over Boston—sick children, children on crutches, in plaster casts and wheel chairs. They are brought to a home on the island, given a bath, clean beds, clean clothes, good and simple food.

Lucy W. Davis, who has the responsibility of this large household, understands not only the physical but the spiritual needs of the children. She says the bodily cure, a little kindness, a little loving, combined with a little firmness and system, works the transformation. Sometimes they will get started in a week. But sometimes, when life has been "one long carouse," says Miss Davis, "there may pass many days before the sheer exhaustion gives way to the slightest gain. One little child, who had been 'pinched to make her sweat,' slept the greater part of a month before any degree of normal life returned to her."

Besides, the nurses assisting Miss Davis are an interesting group of young women, who give from their summers a month or more to the care and amusement of these little children. Because there are so many, as soon as children are restored, they must give way to others and return to their poor homes, where they often lose ground. To meet this they are taught useful lessons in the care of the person and the house, so that they carry back from the island not only health for themselves, but the beginning of better life for the family. Miss Davis and her helpers are also planning to visit them in their homes regularly during the winter, when the island is closed.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Ever Present Question of What to Have For Breakfast.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

Every evening the question comes to the housewife of what to have for breakfast. The answer must depend largely on how much time there is for getting the meal. If there must be a scramble to put something on the table just in time to feed those who go to shop or office the breakfast is likely to be little more than toast, eggs and coffee. Many people declare that this is all that they want. However I have noticed that frequent

BALDNESS.

(By Howard L. Rahn.)

BALDNESS is a disease which is liable to break out just when a man figures on getting married for the fourth time. It is most prevalent in those where the husband cuts about as much ice as the kitchen mop. There are various causes for baldness, but the most common is the mental strain of a power churning and a shining dome that never grows anything but a fresh change of skull caps. Some men grow bald in early youth and waste their substance in hair tonics and dandruff cures, coming home to the bosom of their families with a barber shop flavor that makes the gas flicker, while others never touch anything on their hair but a Derby hat and pass through life as changeable scenes bearing a close resemblance to an asparagus fern. It is a very aggravating thing to a man with a porcelain rookery to hear reproachful comments on his headpiece from a wife who calls around town in an assortment of bright new hair to which she was a total stranger only a few days before. The bald-headed man is a shining mark for the predatory fly, which loves to congregate on his knob and hold gentle converse. Some men become so sensitive in their bald spot that they can tell at once whether a fly is standing on his hind foot or is squaring away for the evening meal. It is a scientific fact that the bald-headed man is always so near-sighted that he has to get on the first row of the orchestra chairs in order to extract any great amount of enthusiasm out of a performance which is guaranteed not to offend the most fastidious.

More Railroad.—A meeting of the railroad committee of the board of trade and some of the residents of the town of Porter was held yesterday afternoon for the purpose of considering a project advanced by the Porter gentleman for building a line of road from Janesville to Madison through the town of Porter instead of the contemplated route through Evansville. This is the old proposed route of the Chicago, St. Paul and Fond du Lac railroad and a portion of the line, we understand, was graded a few years ago and then abandoned. The board of trade did not give the Porter committee any definite answer but referred them to the officers of the Chicago and Northwestern.

BY WALT MASON

There's not much joy in splendor—sail that truth down today; the happiness is slender one gets from vain display. Around town in a motor in majestic romp, and many a footstep voter doth marvel at my pomp; but all that pomp is but a lot more money on my old coat and my hat.

THE GRAND STAND.—Texas money that cost but little money. Around the larks I read and say that golf is great; but those old games were sweeter I played in low estate! My bathroom fairly glitters with costly tub and howl, but oh, to join the cinders down at the swimming hole! The merchants I am trusted, for I have seeds to spare, but long ago, when I lacked this load of care, I'm cutting quite a dash in the burk where I abide; I am the glass of fashion throughout the countryside; and all the gilded snarlers whose names are not in pawn come to my famous parties and prance around my lawn. There are a thousand reasons why I should light my halls but oh, the happy seasons when I wore overalls!

MILTON.—The third number in the Philanthropist lecture course was given last evening by Partridge, "The University of Hard Knocks." It was a corker and pleased the audience very much.

Madame W. H. Weaver and J. H. Granger celebrated their birthdays Monday, the former being entertained by the latter.

Hon. P. M. Green leaves tomorrow for California, via the Santa Fe route, where he will visit relatives and friends.

FOLEY-KIDNEY-PILLS

Always give satisfaction because they always do the work. J. T. Shelton, Bremen, Ga., says: "I have used Foley-Kidney Pills with great satisfaction and found more relief from their use than from any other kidney medicine. I can cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers for kidney and bladder trouble." Foley-Kidney Pills will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. Hador Drug Co.
